2026 FALL/WINTER LIE COLLECTION

Performance on the Edge.
: Precision, refined between altitude and the city.

The LIE 26FW collection draws inspiration from ski mountaineering, expanding the discipline's core aesthetics of exploration, precision, and balance into a language of urban luxury. It proposes a new vision of high-end athleisure where technical performance seamlessly coexists with understated elegance.

Rooted in ready-to-wear, the collection is defined by meticulously engineered pattern lines that merge wind-cutting dynamic curves with sharp, linear seam details that evoke speed. Slim, ski-suit-inspired layering is paired with structurally voluminous outerwear, creating a refined harmony between streamlined movement and architectural form.

The color palette originates from snow-covered alpine landscapes. Grounded in black, gray, and brown, it is accented with matte off-white reminiscent of fresh snow, alongside deep forest green, khaki, and navy, introduced in a restrained yet impactful manner.

Fabrication ranges from organic, nature-inspired textiles to high-performance outdoor materials, including windproof, waterproof, and mesh fabrics. This balance allows mountain-grade functionality to transition effortlessly into everyday urban life.

Continuing from previous seasons, the collection also features an ongoing collaboration with premium outdoor brand INSOOTH, presenting modular bags, technical garments, and performance-driven accessories that embody the precision and functionality required for ski mountaineering. In addition, a special project with artist Yunhee Jung incorporates discarded materials through macramé techniques, emphasizing craftsmanship while expressing a commitment to sustainability through upcycling.
